THE GERMAN ELECTION

No people were more interested in the German elections than the Jews, because in the last few years, anti-Semitism in Germany has been the work of the militarists and monarchists. We have not yet forgotten the Hittler riots, the pogroms in Bavaria, the murder of Rathenau and the attempt to assassinate Maximilian Harden, both of whom, though converted Jews, were nevertheless Jews in the eyes of the fanatic anti-Semitic followers of Hittler, Ludendorf and Hindenburg. The day before the election the German papers in Berlin which were controlled by the Stinnes interests and supporting Hindenburg, were publishing reports from one of their correspondents in America, stating that only those American papers which were controlled by Jews were ridiculing Hindenburg's candidacy for the presidency of Germany. The report further stated that such papers as "The New York Post," "The New York Times," the Jewish "Forwards" and "The Philadelphia Ledger," Were caricaturing and abusing Hindenburg, whilst all the other American papers sympathized with him.

The "Berliner Tageblatt" and the "Vössische Zeitung" wired their correspondents in New York for a verification of the report. The reply received by them stated that the entire American press condemned Hindenburg's candidacy, and that the Jewish papers were not any more vehement in their attitude towards him than the rest of the press.

And then we woke up on Monday morning and rubbed our eyes in amazement to find that the old Hindenburg of blood-and-iron fame, whom the Allies in 1919 listed as criminal No. 237, had been elected President of Germany. The unholy trinity of reactionaries, monarchists and militarists are in the saddle again in Germany. I literally tremble for fear of the consequences of this backward step which the politically stupid majority of the German people have seen fit to take. I tremble for fear of what it may mean to the world, and for what it will mean for the Jews in Germany. World peace and disarmament have received the greatest set-back. The Dawes agreement is endangered and the five-nation pact which has been backed by Chamberlain and Herriot is "off." There may again be pogroms on the Jews, and we will probably hear the old cry: "Hep, Hep! Jüden heraus!" France, who in the face of the world's opposition has since the Armistice refused to pay her war debts, but instead has in the name of security been preparing the largest standing army among the nations and surrounding Germany with a cordon of steel by making Poland, Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia and Roumania her friends and allies, now stands before the world justified. She now can prove how right she was in insisting that the monarchists and militarism were not dead in Germany.

And yet, in another sense, it was French vindictiveness and her demand that Germany be annihilated economically as well as politically that has produced this very spirit of revenge in the German people who now feel that they have nothing to lose but their chains. My interpretation of the Hindenburg election is that it is a demonstration of protest by the majority of the German people against the Treaty of Versailles and the French. But be the reason whatever it may, the German people, who always put their left foot forward diplomatically, have only themselves to blame if their act brings down upon their heads the condemnation of the world. Hindenburg's election is a calamity. It is a slap in the face of Europe, and more especially of England, who has been trying to forget and let bygones be bygones, even though her friendship for Germany almost cost her her traditional friendship with France. And for the Jews of Germany the election of Hindenburg is fraught with the greatest danger. The militarists, monarchists and reactionaries of whom Hindenburg is the symbol have always and everywhere not only imperilled the peace of the world, but also endangered the position of the Jew. History is replete with proof that the position of the Jew is safe and his welfare good only under liberalism, and insecure under militarism. Hindenburg and the unholy trinity he represents are the worst enemies the Jews have. The news item I have quoted is only an indication of the flood of lies like that of the "Protocol of the Wise Men of Zion," which the Hindenburg crowd will now pour through the sluices of anti-Semitism.

The absurdities of German anti-Semitism are only exceeded and excelled by the stupidities of her world diplomacy. Nevertheless I shudder to think of the consequences to the peace and stability of the world as well as the safety of the Jews that the Hindenburg election in Germany may produce.

WHY JEWISH MEN WED CHRISTIAN WOMEN--A NOVEL THEORY

TALKS ON JEWISH MARRIAGE

Novelist Finds Men Wed Christian Women in Growing Numbers

Elias Tobenkin, a novelist, speaking before the Women's Association of Temple Rodeph Sholem, declared yesterday that marriages between Jewish men and Christian women were increasing because the Jewish girl in America is extremely materialistic."

He said that the average Jewish girl insisted on a good financial rating and that, as a result, in scientific, artistic and literary professions where the remuneration was small, Jewish men found it easier to choose a wife from their Christian friends than from among their co-religionists. He declared that it rested upon Jewish women whether America should have a ghetto, which he called a prison of antiquated rituals, and said that the Jewish youth wanted its religion stripped of "archaic appendages of orthodoxy," to which, he said, Jewish women clung in their homes.

Why do Jewish men marry Christian girls?

A novel theory about this was recently propounded by Elias Tobenkin, the Jewish author of "The God of Might," a novel dealing with the problem of intermarriage between Jew and Gentile. In speaking before one of the New York Jewish Temple Sisterhoods, he said that marriages between Jewish men and Christian women are increasing because the Jewish girl in America is extremely materialistic. The average Jewish girl, he went on to say, insisted on a good financial rating and as a result, in scientific, artistic and literary professions, where the remuneration was small, Jewish men found it easier to choose a wife from their Christian friends than from among their co-religionists.

I should like to ask Mr. Tobenkin how he would on the basis of his theory, explain, for example, the recent engagement of Miss Elizabeth Brandeis, a Jewess, a daughter of the U.S.A. Supreme Court Justice Brandeis,

She tried Lux for dishwashing —now she uses it as a toilet soap, too

(Letter received from a lady in Ontario)
Dear Sirs:
Lately I have seen many articles written in praise of Lux. But I never yet have seen one extolling its use as a personal soap for dainty women. Until I used Lux three times a day to wash dishes with, I was grieved to see my hands getting disfigured, in fact I was ashamed of them when playing the piano. Finding that by using Lux for the purpose they soon became as nice as ever, I tried it in my daily ablution water, including bath! And now, I find the effect of using Lux far more softening on the skin.
Yours truly,
LUX

Lux for dishwashing, of course. Nothing better!

But use pure, dainty Lux for your daily toilet and bath, too! You will find it delightfully refreshing. Lux contains no free alkali and does not dry up the oils in the skin. The gentle, creamy Lux lather is soothing to the most sensitive skin and keeps it soft and smooth.

Some soiled Jewish linen is to be washed in public with the $100,000 libel suit brought by Abram Coralnik, associate editor of The Day, of New York, against the Freiheit Publishing Company. Coralnik's attorneys charge that the Freiheit Publishing Company which they say is spreading propaganda for the Union of Soviet Republics and operating the Freiheit with funds supplied by the Soviets for its establishment and operation, has sought maliciously to weaken the influence and destroy the reputation of Coralnik and The Day. They base their charge on an article in the Freiheit in December, which referred to Coralnik as "a liar, an impostor, a braggart, a clown, a charlatan, and a failure as a writer." One hundred thousand dollars seems like a lot of money for those few words, but then many a Yiddish insult suffers a pitiful loss of strength by translation into a language which provides too little poetic license for cussing.

Secretary of Labor Davis of the United States has proposed at a conference in Washington that Ellis Island be abolished as a point of entrance for immigrants and used only as a place for deporting undesirable aliens. Will it be big enough?

The affection and interest of the Jews in this country follow Count Karolyi, president of the first Hungarian Republic, to England, where he is again saying the things he could say freely in Canada but was not allowed to say in the United States. Because of his courageous opposition to the forces of anti-Semitism, represented by the Horthy regime in Hungary, Karolyi is the beloved hero of the Hungarian Jews and must have the admiration of those everywhere.

Undoubtedly there would have been considerable demonstration over Karolyi in the States on the part of Jews had the attitude of their government been less discouraging. In New York City a gathering of Hungarian Jews gave a dinner for him at which Rabbi Samuel Buchler was toastmaster, and after Karolyi left the country, Samuel Untermyer, the noted lawyer, denounced the position of the State Department. In his speech to the National Association of the Jewish Baking Industry, Untermyer spoke for all liberals, Jews and others, when he expressed horror at the revocation by the government of the American tradition of hospitality to political exiles.

To such people as Untermyer, who would like to believe the country free, the gagging of Karolyi was a matter of national importance. It indicated that their government has been moving toward the destruction of a much-vaunted liberty, that of freedom of speech, a situation made more than astounding by the apathy of the majority of people viewing it. The only comfort that liberals can get from the humiliating affair is in its result. For by its obedience to the behest of a reactionary government in Budapest, the American government made its people much keener to read Karolyi's opinions, bootlegged from other countries, and, as he says, gave him the world for an audience.

An unconscious contributor to this column to-day is the social editor of the California Jewish Review, our western namesake. Her effusion is the last word, the corsage bouquet, the touch of real lace, and it reads something like this:

"The Montmarte in Hollywood, society's popular cafe, with its gay informality that characterizes its delightful affairs, was metamorphosed into a setting of vivaciousness and charm on Saturday at a luncheon of exquisite appointments at which Miss Faith Goldsmith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Goldsmith, presided as gracious hostess. The long guest table, at which covers were marked for twelve, was strikingly intriguing with dainty spring blossoms. The occasion, a particularly happy one, was given to honour Mrs. S. Jack Heilman (Marjorie Ullman), a bride of the early winter months, and was fraught with colorful animation that lent enchantment to the affair."

This is known to the writing trade as laying it on thick or letting no noun go nude for want of an adjective or two. A paper tricked out in this stuff is one of the fanciest coquettes on the exchange table and queens it easily over the little brown wrens that practice economy when adventuring at all with the vocabulary of flattery. Take the CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW, for example. Its northern composure is almost Spartan. It tells all the news it has space for in as few words as possible, and prefers names of people to anything. Of course it melts at once toward descriptions of the ladies' gowns and will always endeavour to find room for a lady's party when she insists the world will stop if her uninvited relatives read it. But aside from this, the REVIEW is notoriously reserved and keeps goo on hand for no man. How it must hide its unadorned head when it finds itself far from home among those that ladle out saccharine before they do anything else!

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 5

What 'Orange Pekoe' Means

Many buyers of tea have come to ask for 'Orange Pekoe' believing that it signifies fine quality. This is not, however, necessarily the case. In the trade 'Orange Pekoe' is only a name given to the first leaf below the bud or tip on any Indian or Ceylon tea bush. An 'Orange Pekoe' leaf grown at a high elevation usually possesses a very fine flavour. If, however, the plant is grown at a low elevation, it may still be 'Orange Pekoe' but also be of very poor quality. The consumer's only safeguard is to buy a tea of recognized goodness. High grown 'Orange Pekoes' comprise a large part of every blend of "SALADA" and give to "SALADA" its unequalled flavour.

BEN-AMI TRIUMPHS AGAIN

Ben-Ami's appearance at the Standard Theatre, always a gladdening event for local Yiddish play-goers, once more gave evidence of his limitless artistic powers, by creating a new role in Mark Arnstein's legendary drama "Der Wilner Balbesil," or "The Singer." Induced to extend his local engagement at the Standard, Ben-Ami will produce a play that has for years been considered a classic in all the civilized countries where theatres exist. N. V. Gogol's satirical comedy, "The Inspector-General," is one of these comedies in which actors delight to appear. There will be three performances of this comedy, which will mark Ben-Ami's final appearance here in Toronto. Efforts are being made to arrange a performance in honour of Peretz Hirschbein, the noted poet and dramatist, the man who may be said to have purged the Yiddish stage from the melodramatic muck in which it had been wallowing for years. Peretz Hirschbein may come to this city to witness the performance.

SHEA'S

A vaudeville bill with headline honours shared by Miss Patricola and Patti Moore will please Shea's-goers next week. Miss Patricola is a scintillating melodist in a cycle of character songs both with the violin and with her voice. She is a very attractive young woman with a stage presence almost as great as her musical ability.

Patti Moor's Song and Dance Revue is syncopation in all of its possibilities. It is an effective blending of song, dance and music. Miss Moore is supported by a company of ten, Buster Mazzola and Bud and Buddy and the Dominio Entertainers, an exceptionally good band.

Julius Tannen's gift of gab is known and appreciated wherever there is an English-speaking theatre. He always has something to say and the way he says it is always productive of a laugh that makes man happier and healthier.

Pepito, Spanish clown, is funny in various ways. His clowning includes imitations of birds and animals, and a bit of cycling on a miniature wheel. Pepito was first clown of the Circus Parish, Madrid, for five years and became a great favourite with King Alfonso and the royal family.

Frank Richardson calls himself "The Joy Boy of Song," which means he is a singing comedian. His style is different, as this is a joy boy with individuality. Meehan's Canines, featuring his celebrated leaping hounds, and an Aesop Fable completes the bill.

GIRL PIANISTS TO GIVE RECITAL

At Toronto Conservatory of Music, Tuesday evening, May 5, Sadie and Mollie Krehm will give a joint recital of piano music. These girls are pupils of Miss Grace Gillis, herself a pupil of the late Michael Hambourg. Mollie and Sadie won the highest prizes at the music festivals conducted by the Ontario Music Society in 1923 and 1924.

Sadie, Mollie and Florence Krehm

On the programme being prepared by the youngsters are Chaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite," Opus 71 A, Mozart's Concerto in D Minor; "Scenes from Childhood," by Schumann; Chopin's Valse in A flat. Chopin's Nocturne in E flat will be played by Florence, ten-year-old sister of the young artists. Tickets from the Conservatory.

EDITORIAL

to Paul Rauschenbusch, son of the late Rev. Walter Rauschenbusch, liberal Christian theologian of Rochester, N.Y. According to the announcement, Miss Brandeis and Mr. Rauschenbusch are members of the economics faculty of the University of Wisconsin, and met while at the University. They are of the same economic, social and cultural class. If anything, I presume, Miss Brandeis probably comes of a wealthier family than does Mr. Rauschenbusch, whose father was only a Christian minister. It was a love affair, and a typical case of intermarriage between intellectual men and women. Not money or financial rating, but love and mutuality are the causes.

It seems to me that here we have the real reason for the increase in inter marriage and not, as Mr. Tobenkin would have us believe, that it is due to the materialism of Jewish women. It would be futile to deny that the economic motive plays its role in matrimony, but not especially in cases of intermarriage. There is no doubt about the steady increase in intermarriage between Jew and Christian in recent years in America. But in my opinion it is due, firstly, to the weakening of religious ties, and secondly, to the fact that Jew and Christian now meet freely in all walks of life, such as the universities, the shops, factories, offices, in political, literary and social groups, and not because Jewish professional men are poor idealists and Jewish women insist on a good financial rating

It was Herbert Spencer, I believe, who said that marriage is the result of two factors, propinquity and consanguinity. The love of youth is blind, and its attraction is powerful. But in a country as cosmopolitan as America, youth disregards the traditions of race and religion for the sake and in the name of love. It is inevitable for two young people who happen to be thrown together to become attracted to one another in love, as inevitably as the magnet attracts the steel. I do not believe that there is any such selective process in intermarriage as that which Mr. Tobenkin describes.

A study of intermarriage by my good friend, Dr. Julius Drachsler, professor of sociology in the College of the City of New York, reveals the fact that intermarriage, like other forms of marriage, takes place on certain culture, economic and social levels—that is to say, people of different race nationalities and religions who intermarry are found to be of the same social level and generally in the same economic and cultural grade and class. This is due to the naturalness of people of the same levels being thrown together in work and at play, and therefore, chance acquaintance—propinquity—and not a good financial rating, determines marriages. I am one of those optimists who believe that it is still the heart and not the head, that in the vast majority of cases governs marriage. It is the exception and not the rule, in America, at least, that monetary considerations determine matrimony. In Jewish life the tradition still is that the scholar and professional man, though poor, is to be preferred in matrimony over him, who, though rich, is unlearned. Everything—tradition, sentiment and statistics—contradicts Mr. Tobenkin's theory of why Jewish men marry Christian girls.

If a young man takes a Jewish girl out a few times, the parents want to know if he has serious intentions (bachiss), else why waste the girl's time and other chances. Jewish men know all this, and hence keep shy from Jewish girls if their desire is only companionship and not matrimony. Many Jewish girls in self-defence accept the invitations and attentions of Christian men, though they would prefer the company of Jewish men.

In matters such as these an affair that may start with no serious intentions on the part of either the young man or the young woman often develops into a serious and passionate love affair. It is like placing the match too close to the powder barrel. There is always the risk of an explosion. Then again—"Tell it not in Gath"—a young man may find himself so placed that it becomes a matter of honour to marry the girl. I contend that many inter-marriages in economic and social levels may be the outcome of the reasons I have given, which are based on my experience as a minister.

It has often been said and with some truth that Christian girls prefer Jewish men because Jewish men of their class make better husbands. They do not beat their wives and are not apt to get drunk. Jewish men, as a rule, are temperate in their habits of life, industrious and good providers for the family. It does seem to me that if Mr. Tobenkin had hewed his reasoning along these lines he might have been closer to the truth.

To the Editor,
THE CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW.

Probably no one appreciates more than the rabbis and officials of the Jewish synagogues the wonderful nerve-steadying, soothing, and at the same time stimulating, uplifting and cultural value of good music in not only our services, but in our home, community and national life. For several years Music Weeks have been held in the various cities of Canada and in the United States for the purpose of bringing plenty of good music within reach of everyone, and impressing on our people its great stimulating and cultural value. May 3 to 9 has been set aside as music week. The Canadian Bureau for the Advancement of Music, an association of music patrons and music lovers throughout the Dominion of Canada, who believe in the uplifting and cultural value of music in our home and community life, has been trying to organize a Canadian Music Week, May 3 to 9, to syncronize with music week in the United States, England, New Zealand and Australia. We would like to suggest through your columns that the Jewish rabbis, on May 8, either preach a special sermon on the value of music in home, community and national life or that they make special reference to it in their regular sermon. If some special music could be arranged for it, it would be so much the better.

J. S. ATKINSON,
Director Canadian Bureau for the Advancement of Music.

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, the noted bibliophile, has acquired many book rarieties at the dispersal of a famous private library in England. The cream of the collection went to this well-known connoiseur of precious books. Dr. Rosenbach, whose annual purchases are greater in the aggregate than that of any other book-dealer in the world, is president of the American Jewish Historical Society. "The book I am most pleased to have acquired at the current sale," he said, "is a little copy of Burns's poems for which I paid £1,750. It was the Kilmarnock edition, dated 1786, uncut, in the original wrappers." He also bought the first edition of "Alice in Wonderland," published in 1865, for which he paid £380. An edition of Dr. Rosenbach's little volume of sketches entitled "The Unpublishable Memoirs," has appeared in England during his present stay there. There are tales concerning a literary "Raffles," including a fantasy of how Shakespeare presented a copy of his plays to Bacon.

Dr. Isidor Loeb, of the State University of Missouri, has been appointed Dean of the Commerce and Finance School of Washington University. He is the author of several volumes on educational and political subjects.

Alexander Uminsky, fourteen-year-old Russian pianist, has created quite a furore among Parisian music critics by his remarkable performances. Young Uminsky is a pupil of Serge Weksler, formerly of the Imperial Conservatory of Petrograd.
